After we went to the Gurdwara, we walked around the canal in Sheffield we then conducted a field study about the environment we answered some questions: Has this area got much litter? Has it got much greenery? And if it did we would rank it a 5 and if it didn't a 1 then anything in between. We visited some urban, rural, dirty, clean areas.

On our R.E trip we went to a Gurdwara located in Sheffield. It was a significantly large building, outside of the Gurdwara was a orange triangle flag which was called Nishaan Sahib + his means 'House of Guru'. The Gurdwara is the place of worship for Sikhism and the guru home. When we first entered the building we washed our hands and then the girls put their shoes and coats in one room and then so do the boys, some people brought their own scarfs in but if you didn't you would receive one. Then we walked to the prayer room it was a very big room. The lady talked to us about the 5'ks which was : kara this is a steel bracelet which can not be removed it shows that Sikhs should not do anything that the guru would not approve of this is why the bracelet is always worn on the right hand and it is steel because it is a symbol of unbreakable attachment and commitment, the Kanga which is a wooden comb, Kaccha this is cotton underwear, Kirpan a steel sword and Kesh this means uncut hair this is because the hair is God's gift and it helps take pride in ones appearance. She showed us a photo of the golden temple this is one of the greatest attractions because it is a spiritual hub it is located in Amristar, the holiest temple in Sikh faith, the golden temple is so holy because it embodies the core principles of Sikhism, such as equality, humility, and community service. After we heard the priest read from the guru Granth sahib then we was given some food and ate in the langar.
